The Internet and Politics: Citizens, Voters and Activists (Democratization Studies) By Sarah Oates, Diana Owen, Rachel Gibson

This volume explores the nature of the Internet's impact on civil society, addressing the following central questions:

- is the Internet qualitatively different from the more traditional forms of the media?
- has the Internet demonstrated real potential to improve civil society through a wider provision of information, an enhancement of communication between government and citizen, or via better state transparency?
- does the Internet pose a threat to the coherence of civil society as people are encouraged to abandon shared media experiences and pursue narrow interests?
- in authoritarian states, does the Internet function as a beacon for free speech or as another tool for propaganda?
