Maxims of Robert E. Lee for Young Gentlemen, The By Richard G. Williams Jr.

Advice, admonitions, and anecdotes on Christian duty and wisdom from the life of General Lee. All his life, Robert E. Lee relied upon his faith for strength and guidance not only in troubled times, but also as the foundation upon which he based all of his dealings with others. In this age where self-interest often rules, these short statements, often jotted by General Lee at odd moments, provide young readers with some of the qualities that Lee practiced himself: humility, erudition, faith, duty, wisdom, and respect for all of God's creations. Each section is preceded by a brief anecdote from his life, and each of the quotes is described with the time and circumstance.

Editorial Review

Review

"Richard G. Williams, Jr. offers a sublime figure as counterpoint to the hedonistic 'heroes' of the instant gratification set..." -- Blue & Gray Magazine, Summer 2005

"The sayings and writings attributed to Lee or quoted by him are...useful and valuable...The book is nicely done." -- The Civil War Courier, October 2005

From the Publisher

Advice, admonitions, and anecdotes on Christian duty and wisdom from the life of General Lee.

From the Inside Flap

Richard G. Williams, Jr., is a writer and researcher specializing in the Civil War. His work on the Confederacy earned him the Jefferson Davis Historical Gold Medal from the United Daughters of the Confederacy—the highest honor bestowed upon non-members. Williams was also selected for membership in the Sons of Confederate Veterans' Bonnie Blue Society for his work involving the history of the Confederacy.

Williams is active in historical preservation as a member of the Stonewall Jackson Brigade Camp of the Sons of Confederate Veterans in Lexington, Virginia, where he serves as the camp chaplain. He co-produced both the video series Institute on the Constitution, which won a national award from the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, and the documentary Still Standing: The Stonewall Jackson Story. Williams also served twelve years in Virginia government and as an appointee of former Virginia governor George Allen. He lives with his wife in Virginia's Shenandoah Valley.
